JULY 2011 ISSUE # 25

Dear Brothers and Sisters, Assalamo Alaikum WRWB

Twenty Fifth issue of Newsletter of Memon Jamat for July 2011 is in front of you. Hope it will be interesting & informative to the community.

Just couple of days before issuing the newsletter we observed Islamic event that is "Lailat Al Israa" night between 26 & 27 Rajab 1432 Hijrah (cor.28 & 29 June 2011). Lailat al Israa, also known as Shab-e-Miraj, celebrates the Isra and Miraj of the Prophet Muhammad pbuh, When Prophet pbuh went from Makkah Al-Haram As-Sharif to Masjid Al Aqsa and was then raised to Jannah (Heaven), met with the Prophets and eventually with Allah (God). A write up about Lailat Al Israa is included in this issue. In fact, Muslims celebrate that night by offering prayers and worship. May Allah accept our prayers and bless entire muslim ummah. A'ameen.

Since our last month's Newsletter was 2nd Anniversary Special, we have received several emails from the community members congratulating us for celebrating 2nd Anniversary of the Newsletter. We therefore take the opportunity to express our gratitude & appreciation to the community and particularly to the regular readers of the Newsletter for their kind support, cooperation and guidance from time to time. Undoubtedly, the newsletter has been a great source of updating and providing our community with valuable and interesting information regularly.

We do our best to keep you updated with what's happening around you and in the community through this monthly Bulletin. We will welcome your suggestion & ideas identifying the welfare programs that can be executed by Memon Jamat to benefit our community. We kindly request our community to send us valuable suggestion and feedback without hesitation which may help us to improve our activities.

Isra and Mi'raj

Masjid-e-Aqsa

The Isra and Mi'raj (Arabic: الإسراء والمعراج, al-'Isrā' wal-Mi'rāj), are the two parts of a Night Journey that, according to Holy Quran, the Prophet Muhammad PBUH took during a single night around the year 621. It has been described as both a physical and spiritual journey. A brief sketch of the journey is in sura (chapter) 17 Al-Isra of the Qur'an, and other details come from the Hadith, supplemental writings about the life of Prophet Muhammad PBUH. In the journey, Prophet travels on the steed Buraq to "the farthest mosque" where he leads other prophets in prayer. He then ascends to heaven where he speaks to God, who gives Prophet Muhammad PBUH instructions to take back to the faithful on Earth about the number of times to offer prayers each day.

According to traditions, the Journey is associated with the Lailat al Miraj, as one of the most significant events in the Islamic calendar.

The Isra begins with Prophet praying in the Kaaba in Makkah, when the archangel Jibril (Gabriel) comes to him, and brings him the mythological steed Buraq, the traditional heavenly steed of the prophets. Buraq carries Prophet Muhammad PBUH to the Masjid Al Aqsa the "Farthest Mosque", which Muslims believe is the Al Aqsa mosque in Jerusalem. Prophet PBUH alights, tethers Buraq to the Western Wall and leads other prophets including Adem (Adam), Musa (Moses), and `Īsā (Jesus) in prayer. In the second part of the journey, the Mi'raj (an Arabic word that literally means "ladder"), Buraq takes him to the heavens, where he tours the circles of heaven, and speaks with the earlier prophets such as Abraham, Moses, and Jesus. He is then taken by the angel Jibril to meet God. According to Islamic tradition, God instructs prophet Muhammad PBUH that Muslims must pray fifty times per day; however, Moses tells Prophet that it is very difficult for the people and urges prophet to ask for a reduction, until finally it is reduced to five times per day.

Are women created only for family life?

We have been used to thinking that women have been created for the family life and for raising children, and thus their natural place is in their homes. Nothing in the Quran or Sunna clearly supports such a view or assumption. Such a division of labor between the husband who earns the living of the family and the wife who stays at home doing housework is a societal experience, which has occurred for a very long time throughout history in so many societies, including the Arab society at the time of Islam, and the subsequent Muslim as well as other societies until recent times when change has come out. Women learn and work equally to men, and the family responsibilities are requiring more financial resources. Caring about the home has to be reviewed, and the Prophet's traditions indicate his assistance to his wives.

However, such a modern experience of women's work and the consequent need for husband's help in the housework in so many countries does not necessarily mean that it is an eternal natural law. Social change never stops; and norms are introduced, maintained or abandoned according to their practical benefit.

In English, the verb form "to husband" denotes the mastery and management of the house, and "husbandry" may mean the control of resources and careful management or the or production of plants and animals. The word "groom"-used in bridegroom-is related to feeding. This may merely reflect a societal tradition that has existed throughout history. The Arabic language, however, differently uses the same word "zawj" meaning mate or companion of the other, for both husband and wife.

It is curious - curious that physical courage should be so common in the world, and moral courage so rare.
